We hope to see the time when the truth of this will be appreciated and felt by the whole American people—when it will be as natural for the Americans to take to the country and to the farm, as it is now for the Englishman; when our young men will incline to the culture of the land rather than to dissipate their intellect and their energies in our villages and cities, in other pursuits, and other professions. To hasten this time we must increase their intelligence and their sense of the true dignity of agriculture, adopt new true to with a true feet in depth, by which this stagnant water is passed off, giving an opportunity for the soil to be filled with water from the clouds, which is not only warmer, but charged with enriching gases from the atmosphere. MESSIS. JOSEPH BRECK & SON:

Gentlemen: The Burdick Fodder Cutter I bought of you far exceeds my expectation. I have for the last 25 years used Fodder Cutters of different kinds, which were said to be the best in use—but I have never found one that would begin to cut as much (either hay ore fodder) in the same time, with so little labor as Burdick & Co's. No. 4. The case with which it is kept in order, I deem important. Any person that can sharpen a knife can keep it in order, as the kuife can be sharpened without taking it out of the machine.
